Fate of school may be election issue

The final decision whether to save the first Romulus high school from demolition may be made at the ballot box.

City council Monday night responded to citizen requests to revamp the old building and use it for a community center by approving a recreation study.

The Romulus board of education had tentatively decided to demolish the building.

Once the study is complete, councilmembers said they intend to place the final decision before the voters. Residents will be asked whether they are willing to pay for additional taxes to save the building.

The study will be a joint effort between Mayor Beverly McAnally and the city recreation commission.

It will contain responses from a citywide survey, list the types of recreation programs Romulus citizens want and how much the programs would cost. It also will include the cost to repair and maintain the old school building.

Initially, councilmembers were going to put the issue on the ballot without the study.

Councilman Noah Bergeron and McAnally suggested a slower approach. The idea for the survey was suggested by Councilman William Wadsworth during an earlier meeting.

The decision to do the study and put the issue on the ballot followed a joint meeting Nov. 21 of city council and the Romulus board of education.

At that meeting, representatives from both groups favored the ballot proposal approach.

District officials said the building will be torn down if residents vote against a recreation proposal.

Located on Olive Street, the now-empty building was built in 1930. It has housed high school, middle school, special education and adult education classes.

Concerns over asbestos, a suspected-cancer causing agent, led school officials to close the building last year. They also cited a faulty roof and liability concerns for their decision.

After school board members announced tentative plans to demolish the building, a group of local residents

Romulus school board member Dan Bales told councilmembers they would have to consider rezoning the old high school if they convert it into a community center. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer began working to save it.

Last month, the group urged council to renovate the building into a city recreation center.

During the joint meeting, school and city officials said no money is available to renovate or maintain the building.

Superintendent William Bedell said a recent assessment valued the building at $200,000.

In addition, McAnally said repair costs have been calculated as high as $4.5 million.

School officials still are accepting bids for demolition, Bedell said. That cost is expected to range between $100,000 and $200,000. Asbestos removal, which is necessary whether or not the building is saved, could cost between $75,000 and $100,000, school officials estimate.

Debate over old school divides residents

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

The debate over the future of old South Middle School is becoming an emotional one with some Romulus residents dividing into two camps.

One group of residents claims the building has historical and sentimental significance because it served as the first Romulus high school.

They oppose district plans to demolish the empty building and want it to be renovated into a recreation center.

School officials announced plans to tear down the building last month because of repair problems and the discovery of asbestos, a suspected cancer-causing material.

Also becoming vocal is a group of residents who live near the Olive street school. They say it is unrealistic to fund building repairs and fear a recreation center would lower the value of their homes.

Both groups of residents made their feelings clear Nov. 21 during a school board/city council meeting staged to discuss the building.

Helen Hay spoke strongly in favor of the building, adding that a recreation center is greatly needed in Romulus.

"I'm not against anybody. I just care about the kids in Romulus. If we're going to make Romulus better, we can't just pass the buck," she said.

Hay also said the building is worth the investment of taxpayer dollars.

"This is the chance of a lifetime. We've never had a place of our own."

Hay spoke of the historic value of the school building.

"The best part of a town is the refurbished part. I don't want to be just an extension of Detroit. Refurbish what we have. We have a wonderful history. Romulus has been here 150 years, and we're proud of it."

Also encouraging repair work was resident Gloria Chandler.

"At least give it to the people. If they say no, they say no. It's silly to let that building go to demolition."

Arguing against the recreation proposal was a group of citizens who live near the school.

One nearby resident, Jan Lemmon, said school and city officials already have indicated they do not want to spend money on the building.

"We're wasting tax dollars. Nobody has the guts to stand up and say, look you people, we're not going to do it," she said.

Joe Wegienka said the proposed recreation project is not worth a tax hike.

"We also have a lot of elderly people that pay taxes, and they're getting taxed out."

Some of the residents near the school feel the deserted building is lowering the value of the property. They believe the best option is to demolish it and use the land for housing. The resulting taxable property would help offset the cost of demolition, they believe.

"They didn't do a thing to save the Romulus Tower or the Romulus depot. Both burned," said resident Bill Given. "Now we're fighting to save a monstrous white elephant."

Lemmon said she suspects the issue will end up on the ballot but believes residents will say no to the recreation proposal.

Man found frozen near nursing home

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

His wheelchair trapped on a gravel road 1,000 yards from a local convalescent home, the body of a 40-year-old quadriplegic was discovered early Sunday morning.

Alan Rogers Sr. and another patient from the Apple Tree Convalescent Home had spent more than 24 hours outdoors when Romulus police officers found them.

Rogers reportedly died from overexposure to the cold.

This is the second time in recent months the Rogers family has made headlines.

Rogers is the father of Alan Rogers Jr., 16, a robbery convict who was released from Jackson prison last month to die of cancer at home.

Police put together the story of the older Rogers' death from another patient who was with him, William Felker. Also a quadriplegic, Felker was in good physical condition when he was returned to the center.

Felker told police that he and Rogers had left the convalescent home at 4 p.m. Saturday. Apparently, they had permission to come and go from the home as they wanted.

That afternoon, Rogers said he wanted to show Felker something, Felker said.

On a nature trail behind the building, the electric wheelchairs of both patients became stuck in the mud approximately 20 feet apart, Felker told police.

He said they spent most of the night yelling for help and talking to keep each other awake while they waited for help.

Romulus police became involved in the case at 12 a.m. Sunday when a nurse from the convalescent home alerted them to the missing patients.

Police said the nurse told them the patients were allowed to leave the center on their own discretion and almost always returned before dark.

At that time, center officials believed the two men had driven their wheelchairs along the Interstate 275 bicycle path, police reports state.

Police officers searched Chase Road—where the center is located, the parking lot, the I-275 bicycle path and a nearby park.

At 6:45 a.m., center officials filed an official missing persons report with the police, prompting police to renew their search.

Officer Dennis Felice found the two patients behind the center at 6:50 a.m. In his report, the officer said Rogers was already dead.

2 developments are considered

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Two industrial developments may be in store for Romulus.

City council Monday night approved public hearing dates for two developers seeking industrial development districts.

Forming these districts is the first step to obtaining a tax abatement for developments.

Representatives of AMC Associates hope to construct 10 buildings on the south side of Goddard Road, east of city hall.

They would be part of the larger Metro Airport Center. Buildings would be used for heavy or light manufacturing, air freight forwarding and offices.

The project is expected to generate 750 to 1,000 new jobs and would cost $40 million.

AMC developers want an industrial development district for the 36-acre site. They are scheduled for a public hearing at 7 p.m. Dec. 11 at city hall.

In addition, councilmembers will consider an industrial development district for Header Products Inc. at Wayne Road.

Header representatives said they want to build an addition that would join two existing buildings.

Between 20 and 25 jobs would be created.

A hearing for Header Products is set for 7 p.m. Jan. 8 at city hall.

Police make drug arrest

Ninety pounds of marijuana were seized, and two women were arrested early Saturday morning at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Susanne Clair Morris, 24, and Claudia Black, 24, both of Jamaica, were arraigned in 34th District Court Sunday morning on possession of illegal drugs and smuggling charges.

Bond for the pair was set at $100,000.

Law enforcement officials were investigating the two at the airport for illegal entry into the country when the marijuana was found.

The arrests were a joint effort of officials from the United States Border Patrol, the Drug Enforcement Agency, the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, the Michigan State Police and the Romulus Police Department.

Youth arrested for 2 break-ins

A 16-year-old Romulus teen is in custody for break-ins at two local homes.

The crimes were reported Nov. 24 and 25. Police said the two affected families are related.

Among the items taken was a shotgun and several pieces of jewelry, police said.

The suspect was linked to this case after a fellow high school student reportedly overheard him bragging about the break-ins. The student contacted one of the victims who then went to the teen's home.

With permission from the boy's mother, the victim checked the teen's room and found several items belonging to her, police said. At that point, the teen was arrested for breaking and entering.

Juvenile authorities believe a local man is also linked to the break-ins.

Deputy treasurer is reappointed

Lynn Conway will serve another term as deputy treasurer for Romulus.

City council Monday night approved a request for her reappointment made by Treasurer James Napiorkowski.

Chamber receives special flag

Members of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce were presented with a flag last week recognizing their efforts with the Partnerships for Education program.

Partnerships for Education teams local businesses and schools to prepare students for the job world.

Ed Clark, program director, presented the partnership flag during a chamber luncheon Nov. 21. Clark said the flag is a form of thanks and a way to encourage other businesses to participate in the partnership program.

Even if the building is saved, the school district could not offer any money to the project.

"We'd be glad to be involved, but I wouldn't count on us for any money," Bedell said. "The reason we abandoned it, and the reason the county abandoned it is it's a very old building, and it's going to cost a lot of money to preserve it."

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry said the issue of money should be of primary concern.

"Do we have the resources—the $5 million to save that building?" he asked.

Later, McAnally said the city does not have the necessary funds.

The mayor added that other potential projects, such as an expanded police department, may be on the horizon.

"We have many responsibilities, and our police department is certainly one of them. Recreation is another...If mileage is a consideration, it should be a choice of the people."

City develops new downtown finance plan

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

The upcoming development of senior citizen housing along Goddard Road may be the key to financing downtown improvements, city officials said Monday night.

Members of the Romulus Downtown Development Authority recently approved a development plan calling for extensive projects for the downtown area.

Bonds would be issued to finance the projects, and property tax revenue from new development in the area would be "captured" to repay the investment. This system is known as tax increment financing.

Presently, authority members propose utilizing revenue from the senior housing project for their plan.

The complex will be near Goddard and Wayne roads, across the street from city hall. Construction is expected to begin in the summer of 1990.

"In order to capture some of the taxes from across the road, we have to act in '89," said Bill Crane, authority director.

A public hearing to discuss the finance proposal is set for 6:30 p.m. Dec. 27 at city hall.

Crane also presented councilmembers with the recently approved downtown development plan.

He said authority members hope to work with a newly-formed citizen advisory council to add to the plan in the next few months.

The plan calls for improvements to Goddard Road between the western edge of downtown and the Romulus Civic Center. The road would be resurfaced. Curbs, gutters, landscaping and sidewalks would be installed.

In addition, curbs and gutters would be installed from Sterling Street west to the curve of Goddard.

Property acquisition, demolition and relocation of properties on the north side of Goddard would be needed, the plan stated.

The Goddard improvements would cost approximately $200,000.

The plan also proposes a 40 to 50 car parking lot for all businesses in the development area to be built.

"This lot may also provide an incentive for the attraction of new businesses into the area," the plan stated.

The lot would probably be built at Sterling and Goddard roads for $235,000.

Another option would be to rearrange the existing IGA grocery store lot at Shook Road and Goddard. The project would involve landscaping, better definition of parking spaces, aisles and a loading area.

To strengthen the downtown area, the plan suggests the development of apartment complexes along the east side of Hunt Street, north of Bibbins Road. The project would call for land acquisition. A cost has not been determined yet.

The plan also discusses ongoing improvements to the Romulus Historic Park.

The park, west of Hunt Street, has a one-room schoolhouse undergoing renovation. Members of the Romulus Historical Society hope to add a gazebo and band shell, picnic tables, a pavilion, flower gardens and a train caboose.

"The museum and historical park can be a point of interest visited by persons who are shopping downtown, regional visitors who are here because of the airport and hotels and neighbor residents," the plan stated. "It is also anticipated that festival, civic and cultural functions will take place at the park."

A $179,000 price tag has been attached to the improvements.

Area residents join forces to help paralyzed woman

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Since an accident left Romulus resident Judy Bonk paralyzed from the neck down she has had one goal— independence.

She wants to live at home, not in a hospital.

A group of residents from Romulus and New Boston have decided to help Bonk. They organized an all-you-can-eat fish and chips dinner for Dec. 1.

All of the proceeds will go towards Bonk's care. Organizers hope to raise $3,999.

The odd number stems from the major force behind the fundraiser, the Downriver Fellowship Branch of Lutheran Brotherhood.

This organization provides $9,500 in relief funds to this area every year, said group representative Pastor Bob Allmann.

For Bonk, they will match the first $1,333 made at the dinner and double it. The Downriver chapter has 1,333 members.

Allmann said Bonk is a member of his New Boston Church. "We were aware of her accident...the need for financial assistance."

Bonk was injured approximately one year ago when she stepped off an 18-inch high porch and fell. Three vertebrae were broken in her upper neck, Allmann said.

In the past year, she has gained limited use of her arms and in the thumb and a finger of one hand.

Although Bonk does have insurance, her company has yet to reach a settlement, the pastor added.

"Meanwhile, they really are in desperate need for help," he said, referring to Bonk and her family.

In order for her to leave the University of Michigan Medical Center, Bonk needs special equipment and ramps for her home in Romulus, Allmann said.

She needs wider doors in her home and a van for transportation. The dinner will help fund these items.

Cosponsoring the fish dinner are the Romulus and New Boston Rotary Clubs.

The Apple Tree Lane convalescent home in Romulus and the university hospital have agreed to supply medical equipment Bonk will need at home.

Tickets for the dinner cost $6 for adults and $4 for children ages 5 through 11 years. The menu includes the traditional fish and chips along with cole slaw, macaroni salad, beverages and rolls. Food will be served from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Romulus Senior High School cafeteria.

Today is the last day to purchase tickets, Allmann warned. They can be purchased at— B & L Automotive Supply, 37311 Goddard; Crane Funeral Home, 36883 Goddard; Manufacturers National Bank, 36450 Goddard; Silver Bullet Bar, 37421 Huron River Drive or Walter's Bar, 37452 Huron River Drive.

For further information, call Allmann at 753-9048 or 753-3322.

Police enlisted in area car chase

Three suspects in the robbery of a Van Buren Township business are in custody after Romulus police officers aided township police in apprehending them.

The suspects, all Detroit residents, are charged with robbing an employee of Manimark Corp. of $4,500 in cash and stealing a company vehicle, which was valued at $30,000.

The three men apparently had waited until other employees had left the Manimark facility, located on the I-94 Service Drive, before threatening the lone remaining employee and taking the cash and vehicle.

Another Manimark employee called police to report suspicious activities by three men in the area, and a Van Buren Township police officer responded within minutes of the call. When the report of the theft was relayed to the officer, he called for backup and followed the truck as it left the parking lot and proceeded east on I-94 to the Haggerty Road exit.

One suspect got out of the vehicle, between Haggerty and Hannan roads, and fled on foot. The suspect was arrested by a Romulus police officer on Wayne Road. His two accomplices also were apprehended.

The suspects, Norsh Stephens, 31; Eddie Johnson, 26, and Kenneth Jones, 29, all of Detroit, were arraigned at 34th District Court, and are awaiting pre-trial examinations.

Van Buren Township Police Chief Joseph Davies credited the alertness of the officers and the quick response time in reaching the scene of each incident to the apprehension of the suspects.

Letters awarded

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Brains, not brawn, was recognized last week at Romulus Senior High School.

Approximately 70 students at Romulus Senior High School earned letters for their achievements.

The letters were not earned on the track field, the wrestling mats or in the band room. They were earned in the classroom.

School officials met with the academic achievers and their parents during a special breakfast Nov. 21.

To qualify for a letter, students must have earned a 3.5 grade point average or higher for both semesters of the previous school year.

William Bedell, Romulus Community superintendent, congratulated the students, calling them the success of public education. The superintendent encouraged the students to consider a career in education.

"We're going to need you very desperately," he said.

Bedell also listed strengths of the high school—tough graduation requirements, peer tutoring programs, high academic test scores and strong athletic teams.

Juan Rivera, a third-year letter award recipient, addressed the students.

"These awards are an honor...they have to be earned," Rivera said. "I've heard teachers say time and time again they can't force students to learn."

The desire to learn, Rivera continued, often comes from one's parents.

Addressing the parents, Rivera said, "When your child goes up there to receive an award, not only should you be proud of them—be proud of yourselves."

Below is a list of the academic achievement award recipients.

Seniors—Lynette Cain, Mary Campbell, Mark Hoinka, Christine Martell, Juan Rivera, Tiphaine Stepchuk, Rebecca Szente and Laura Wasvary.

Juniors—Patreece Amos, Melissa Avery, Renee Bitner, Karla Black, Bonnie Boyd, Stacie Brown, James Christie, April Coleman, Jennifer Daniel, Hattie Forbes, Andrew French, Michele Haines, Brooke Hammers, Steven Hockett, Wendy Hopper, Kimberly Lewis, Kimberly Malgay, Tameca Robertson, Yolanda Rupert, Michele Scarrow, Angela Slawinski, Dennis Tassin, Chris Vavro, and Danielle Winston.

Sophomores—Kim Adamski, Leah Aggison, Sue Arquette, Genesis Barnes, Melissa Boyer, Heidi Bussard, Alison Cope, Linda Ditsch, Tammie Gooch, Amy Grishaber, Yolanda Hullum, Andrea Johnson, Melanie Johnson, Amanda Kesner, Lisa Kochanski, Jenny McClure, Bonita McMullen, Todd Robinson, Sherri Rocha, Marci Tomchick and Steven Yates.

The holiday season is barely under way, but Christmas post office rush already is in full swing.

Some of the holiday mailing deadlines already have come and gone, according to Jack Truesdell, superintendent of window services for the Wayne, Westland and Canton Township post office.

"Most overseas packages mailed now will not make it," Truesdell said.

Procrastinators need not panic, however. They do have some options.

"The next best way would be air mail," he said.

The overseas deadline for air mail is Dec. 8.

For people who need more time, they can use express mail, which will deliver an overseas package within two or three days.

The U.S. Postal Service provides express mail to 100 countries, but customers pay a price for speed.

Truesdell said costs start at $10.75 for packages weighing half a pound.

Deadlines for domestic mail are somewhat more flexible. Parcel post packages should be in the mail by the first week of December, Truesdell said.

Priority mail can be sent as late as Dec. 18, he added. This option is not necessarily more expensive than parcel post. Packages weighing up to two pounds can be mailed anywhere in the country for $2.40.

Once again, last-minute mailers can use the express system, in which packages arrive one day after they are mailed.

"That gives people a chance to mail right up to Christmas Eve," Truesdell said.

The cost is $8.75 for a half pound package.

After investing in a timely arrival, people should wrap and address their packages correctly, Truesdell added.

"Use a strong box so the contents aren't crushed," he said. Styrofoam or rolled up newspaper prevent shifting within the box, he said.

Postal workers prefer uncovered boxes for packages, but if wrapping is necessary, Truesdell recommends using grocery bags.

Addresses should be written on 3-by-5 inch cards with indelible felt tip markers.

To secure the address and the rest of the box, use reinforced filament tape. Do not use string or any other type of tape, Truesdell said, because they are unreliable.

WHY TRAVELERS
LOVE LONDON

There are good reasons why American travelers love to visit London. One of the immediate plusses is that there is no language problem to worry about. Nowhere in the world will you discover so many fascinating sights and varied activities to suit all tastes and pockets.

There is Roman London, Downing Street, the Palace Westminster where great events have taken place through the ages. In the old city there is Saint Paul's Cathedral, the Law Courts, Fleet Street and the Tower, home of the Crown Jewels. The British Museum, National Gallery and Albert Hall are world-famous landmarks of great achievements and Madam Tussaud's wax museum and the planetarium provide enjoyment too.

London nightfall is great! It boasts, perhaps, the best theatre-going in the world! And there are pubs, casinos, inns, discos and concert halls throughout the country. The next time the resounding bells of Big Ben toll — let them toll for you!

Local officials' pay is compared in conference study

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

A recently-completed survey shows salaries of municipal employees in metro Detroit vary widely.

The Conference of Western Wayne, a consortium of 17 municipal governments in western Wayne County, conducted the study as a service to its members.

Consortium officials sent a questionnaire to 70 municipalities in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Washtenaw counties and published the results from the 42 who responded.

"The purpose of this survey is just to provide an overview of the municipal compensation process," said Marsha Bianconi, who directed the study.

The information was compared between August and the end of October. All figures included in the report are current to the time the municipality sent in the numbers.

Although some local governments adjust their salaries late in the year, Bianconi said the report is at least accurate in terms of 1989 figures.

Released figures for individual communities include the salaries of elected officials and department heads, police and fire department personnel, appointed boards and commissions and technical and clerical staff.

Top municipal salaries in the area include $68,310 for Westland Mayor Charles Griffin; $55,635 for Wayne city manager Thomas Daily; $55,000 for Inkster city manager Grady Holmes; $43,200 for Canton Township Supervisor Thomas Yack; $40,000 for Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally; $33,375 for Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jakokes; and $13,200 for Sumpster Township Supervisor Marvin Banotai.

Municipal officials frequently cite salaries in neighboring communities when setting their own salaries.

The mayor's salary was one of several issues discussed in the recent Westland mayoral race, in which Griffin lost his seat to challenger Robert Thomas. Thomas said he would freeze the mayoral salary if elected.

The city of Belleville, which is not a member community of the consortium, was the only local community that did not respond to the study.

Bad marks

Local districts fare poorly in study

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

Local school districts fared poorly in a recent statewide report, but officials of those districts last week criticized the study.

The study, Profiling Michigan's School Districts, recently was released by Public Sector Consultants, Inc., a Lansing think tank.

Districts throughout the state were ranked according to how efficiently they spend the money available to them.

Much of the criteria was based on scores from the Michigan Educational Assessment Program, in which students are test in math, reading and science.

Locally, the highest-ranked district was the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. Plymouth-Canton was ranked 59th out of 116 districts in the suburban category.

Also in the suburban category, Romulus schools were ranked 100th and Wayne-Westland schools were ranked 106th.

In the urban category, Westwood schools ranked 35th out of 41 districts while Inkster schools ranked 39th.

In the town/county seat category, Van Buren schools were ranked 61st out of 65 districts.

The study has been attacked by education officials at both the local and state level.

"The whole thing's a joke," said Romulus Superintendent William Bedell. "It's ridiculous."

Bedell said the use of MEAP score averages from an entire district are misleading because the scores fail to account for students who score very high.

"They average the whole district and compare, and you can't do that," Bedell said.

The notion of judging spending efficiency with test scores makes little sense, Bedell said.

"If people want to know how we're spending the money, they have to come down and spend some time with us," Bedell said.

Plymouth-Canton Superintendent John M. Hoben said the study is flawed.

"The indicators they're using have no meaning," he said.

Hoben said the conclusions drawn from MEAP scores are not as simple as authors of the study claim.

"There is no correlation, for instance, comparing fourth-grade MEAP scores with seventh-grade MEAP scores," Hoben said.

Elvin Peets, superintendent of Van Buren schools, said he has not seen the report but questioned the idea that Van Buren MEAP scores are low.

"That's interesting because we just received a MEAP incentive grant from the state Department of Education, which recognizes our significant improvements," Peets said.

Dennis O'Neill, superintendent of Wayne-Westland schools, said inaccurate information was used in ranking his district.

He said the wrong tax rates were used, and the study incorrectly indicated the district does not comply with graduation standards. The district's staff/pupil ratio also was wrong, he said.

O'Neill said they also reported that the two Wayne-Westland high schools are ninth-through 12th-grade when they are actually 10th-through 12th-grade.

According to O'Neill, he wrote to senior economist Robert Kleine but never received a response. He said the problems were indicative of other flaws in the study.

"They're comparing apples to oranges," O'Neill said.

Equilla Bradford, superintendent of Westwood schools, said she has several questions about the study, including why Westwood, which includes parts of Inkster and Dearborn, was listed as urban.

"It was my understanding that a report would be made, and that comparisons would not be made," Bradford said. "And that concerns me, and that's the same thing they said about the assessment tests."

You can sign up for M-CARE November 13 through December 8. See your benefits representative.

With M-CARE, the sky is not the limit.

There's a serious accident. Time is crucial. A helicopter is dispatched to speed the victim to the University of Michigan Burn Center... a service you, hopefully, will never have to call on. But it's there if you need it, and much, much more through M-CARE.

M-CARE is the only HMO that links all the resources of the U of M Medical Center to the personal care of your family doctor and your nearby hospital. M-CARE covers you for office visits, checkups, hospitalization—even emergency helicopter transport.

Of course, with the M-CARE network of hospitals in cities like Royal Oak, Dearborn and Rochester, you don't always have to go to the U of M Medical Center. But isn't it good to know it's there whenever you need it? To find out more, ask your employer. Or call M-CARE at 747-8700.

Is there no sacred ground?

Nobody wanted a fight. Betty Smith wanted to mail a package to her nephew in Omaha. Brian Adams needed to send a registered letter, and Susan Jones was trying to pick up a gift from her mother. The last thing any of them was looking for at the Westland Post Office Saturday morning was a confrontation. Unfortunately, they, like everyone else who approached the facility that day, were faced with an emotional and political issue better left to personal and private decision-making.

As each of these individuals approached the doors to the post office, two young men who might have been scraped off a Norman Rockwell canvas stepped into the only path to the entrance. Well-scrubbed and carefully-groomed, the appearance of these men clearly belied the content of the literature and sentiment of the posters blatantly displayed on the card table they had erected on the post office lawn. Posters demanded the public "Jail the satanists," and "Stop the murderers."

"Pro-choice is devil worship," the men and their posters proclaimed as they carefully inserted themselves into the paths of Westland residents attempting to take care of postal business. "Won't you help us put the satanists in jail?" they would implore postal patrons as they attempted to enlist support for the Lyndon LaRouche doctrine they were proselytizing. As annoyed residents attempted to avoid them, their doctrine and their literature, they continued their pleas for support.

According to Wayne-Westland-Canton Postmaster Lloyd Wesley, Jr. the demonstrators had not bothered to obtain permission to be at the post office. If they had, Wesley explained, they would have been told that no such conduct is allowed at the federal facility. Wesley further noted that LaRouche followers like Saturday's made several unauthorized appearances at the post office earlier in the year. They were told to leave, and this latest invasion of the privacy of the post office was without any knowledge of postal officials.

Wesley explained that he has purchased candy from entrepreneurial girls before explaining the rules of non-solicitation at the post office to them and sending them, and the candy bars, packing. No one, Wesley said, has any right being on the property of the post office for anything other than postal business.

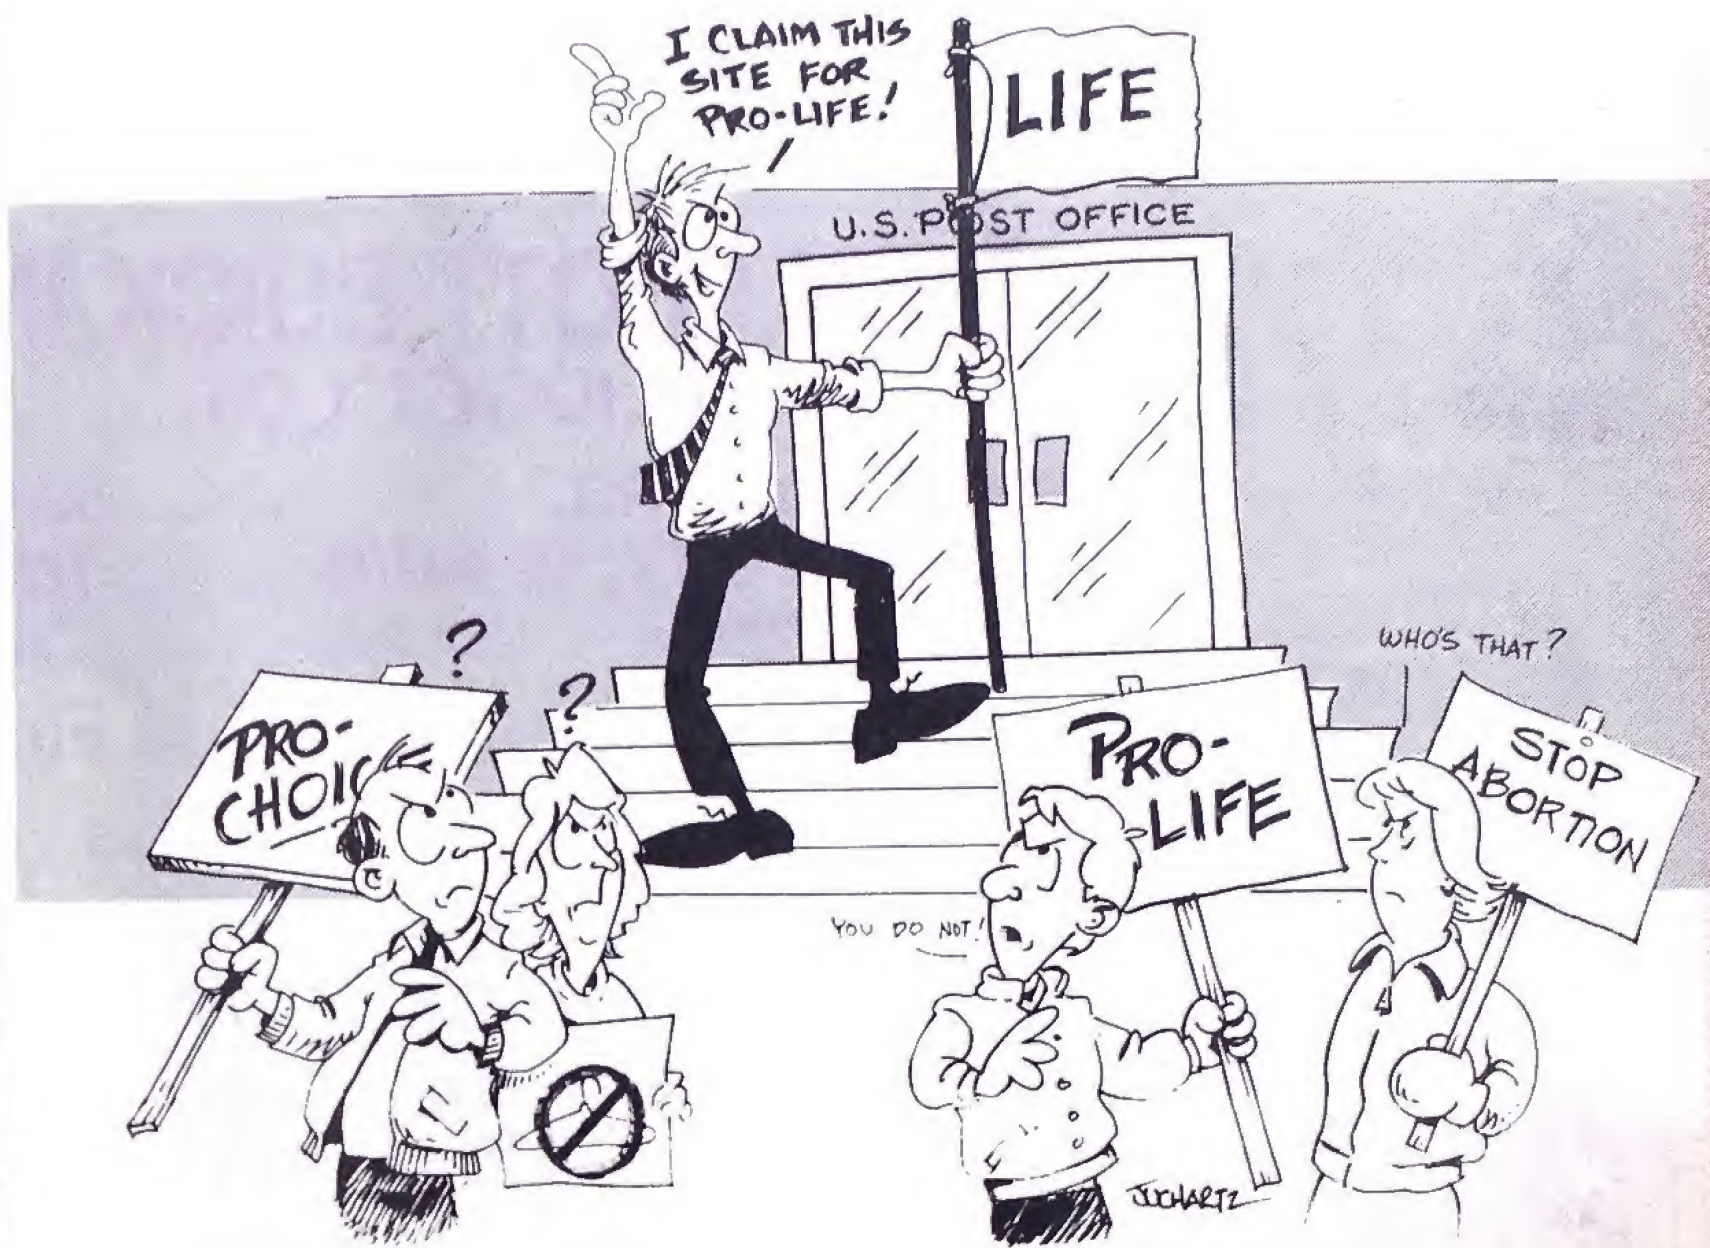

Amen. While we might not find the Girl Scouts objectionable, we find any group purporting any political or religious viewpoint at a public place an invasion of our privacy. We laud Mr. Wesley for his efforts to protect the sanctity of the facilities he manages and for his understanding of the rights of citizens to conduct postal business in an atmosphere of dignity and professionalism.

Mr. Wesley suggests that should visitors to the post office witness any solicitation, protest or demonstration, a report immediately be made to postal employees inside. He has informed the LaRouche people, he explained, that should they appear again, he will have them arrested. The last demonstrators at the Westland site claim their rights to be there were protected by the Constitution. Mr. Wesley, however, has opted to listen to the opinion of the general counsel to the post office stationed in Chicago who insists that these people have no justification for being on post office property.

We agree wholeheartedly with Mr. Wesley. The rights of any political, ethnic, religious or altruistic individual or group end when the exercise of those constitutionally-guaranteed freedoms interfere with the rights of others. Their rights end where yours begin.

Next time, don't just ignore them. No matter what the issue being espoused, how wonderful the cause for the fundraising or how dear to your heart the issue, complain. Understand that if a group can descend on the post office without permission or notification and violate the law for a worthy cause, they can do the same for one less than admirable.

The post office is, after all, your property.

Health centers are protested

In January, 1990, a teen health center is scheduled to open in the Romulus High School. It is for this reason I am writing. Right to Life of Michigan passed a resolution in opposition to teen health centers because evidence shows that certain programs being offered by the centers open the door to family planning services which promote abortion as a solution to teenage pregnancy. Also, the offering of confidential counseling services to youth in five crucial areas which would concern parents, violates parental rights. Parents are not informed of youth's treatment.

In agreement with the RTLM resolution in opposition to teen health centers, the Romulus Right to Life is urging all parents and/or guardians not to sign the consent forms which give the youth access to the teen health center.

Although direct referral for abortion cannot be made within the teen health center, access to abortions is still available via second-party referrals. With an abortion clinic located in Romulus, this is something for all parents and/or guardians to con-

Millage is supported

Will Councilman O'Neil's proposals work? They look on paper and I feel it's better than most ideas. Councilman O'Neil like myself have children and feel Inkster is our hometown. I will support the police millage and will work to help. Councilman O'Neil wants to help out and it's time the mayor and council quit worrying about whose idea it was or if any secret meetings were held and get on with what the people of Inkster elected them for.

Neighbor says thanks

I would like to thank the many neighbors, friends, businesses and people in Wayne and elsewhere who have overwhelmed me with their concern and help at such a devastating time (house destroyed by fire). I hope

I can someday repay everyone for their kindness, but since there are many people who have helped that I don't even know - or won't be able to thank in person or by note - I hope this letter will reach them. I will never forget their thoughtfulness toward my family as long as I live.

I would also like to thank the Wayne fire and police departments for their prompt action and patience; and city councilmembers and Mr. John Zech and Mr. Patrick Ostrosky for their advice and concern.

Decline of the city

I should have written this letter sooner, with the election coming up next week (letter dated Nov. 1, 1989, letter received Nov. 17, 1989). What really bothers me is the decline of the city of Wayne. While we have a "over building" of Westland.

Wayne is a quaint quiet little town. I like this aspect but Wayne could and should be a lot more lively. Day by day we witness Wayne's decline. We see it mainly in the pullout of business in the downtown areas. We have a great theater, the State Wayne, that has been closed for years. Now it's more of an eyesore.

I've heard there are a couple of city councilmembers who don't want change. Well let's either try to open their eyes to the positives of change or vote them off the board. I really like the city Wayne but it's depressing to drive down Michigan Avenue and see business after business gone.

It appears if it weren't for the bars and banks there would be no downtown. In contrast, you look at Westland, it seems like if there is vacant land then let's build on it. There are strip malls and buildings being erected every day, on every corner. I would like to see a happy medium.

If we could keep Wayne quaint yet with some life, this is almost the 90s now. Then try to slow down the "over building" of Westland by leaving some land.

The Wayne/Westland area is a good place to live. Let's make it a great place to live with a few minor changes. We can start by getting opinions, turning them to actions and making Wayne/Westland a great place to be.

Her name was really Fanny

just desserts

sue willett

This is my grandmother's fault.

One of her legacies bestowed too many years ago to allow for any shred of dignity was the recipe for her famous "gift cake." Each year, at the holidays, she would begin making these cakes to be presented to those who had garnered her favor during the year. Receiving one of these from her was a real mark of achievement throughout the community, and those receiving (or NOT receiving) one of Fanny's cakes were the hottest topic of conversation (read gossip) throughout the social set.

As Grandma's circle of friends grew, so did the number of cakes baked each year and eventually, she had to enlist help in preparing these tokens of esteem. These symbols of achievement can only be compared to receiving an Oscar or an Emmy. If you received one of Fanny Yoder's cakes...your position in society was guaranteed. Please, stop the chuckling, that really and truly was her name. Honest.

Eventually, Grandma needed help. As she grew older and became aware of her own mortality, she evidently decided she needed all the friends she could get. As her determination to increase her popularity grew, so did her list of cake recipients...and it wasn't long after we could read that my sister and I were dragged into the kitchen to help her bake these things.

The two of us became convinced, some time ago, that it really wasn't the cake that people wanted so desperately...it was the ability to brag that Fanny had sent them one, therefore validating their worth in our society. Obviously, when Fanny departed for that great kitchen in the sky (we hope) both my sister and I were besieged for the recipes for her gift cakes. We wouldn't give in, but as most of those who ever received one have now joined ole Fanny...this might be a good time to experiment with her cakes.

My sister swears that if these recipes are revealed, Fanny will come back to haunt me and she wants it made very clear that she had nothing to do with revealing any of Grandma's secrets. So if anybody asks, tell 'em you got the recipe from her OK? Old Fanny had a terrible temper and I don't think her present environment will have done anything to improve her disposition. Sorry, sis, but it's every cook for herself.

Fanny's gift cake

- 1 8-ounce package cream cheese
- 1 cup margarine
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
- 4 eggs
- 2 1/4 cups sifted cake flour (not all-purpose)
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 cup well-drained chopped Maraschino cherries
- 1/2 cup finely chopped pecans
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- 1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners sugar
- 2 tablespoons milk

Combine softened cream cheese, margarine, sugar and vanilla, mixing until well blended. Add eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition. Gradually add 2 cups flour, sifted with baking powder, mixing well after each addition. Toss remaining flour with cherries and chopped nuts and fold into batter. Grease a 10-inch Bundt or tube pan and sprinkle with the finely

Inkster resident Theresa Williams grew up as part of a large family. Cooking was one of her responsibilities as a youngster. Today, her favorite recipes please her own children. ANP photos by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Inkster woman learned to cook out of necessity

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

In a house crammed with 14 brothers and sisters, helping with the cooking is not an option, it is a fact of life.

"You just kind of learn," said Inkster resident Theresa Williams.

The fourth oldest child in her family, Williams said she remembers working in the kitchen with her mother, soaking in her advice and learning through trial and error.

No longer immersed in a crowd of children, Williams now prepares meals for herself and her husband. Her three children have already learned from their mother and have gone on to make their own homes. Williams said she made sure none of her kids will ever be lost in the kitchen.

"I believe they should all learn to cook, including the boys," she said.

The most basic advice Williams offered her children—prepare thoroughly before beginning any recipe.

"Read recipes all the way through. Make sure you have all of your ingredients."

Knowing one's ingredients also is crucial, she said. A licensed nurse, Williams said she is permanently in the habit of reading labels.

As exacting as she is with the quality of her ingredients, Williams is quite relaxed when it comes to putting them together.

When demonstrating her method for preparing corn bread, Williams pulled out her special spoon, one used especially for that recipe. The trick, she said, is to mix the same amounts of corn meal and flour.

"But I don't measure, I just dump it in here," she said.

Although she is at ease in the kitchen now, Williams recalls some difficulties she had there when she first was married.

After preparing meals for 14 siblings at home, scaling recipes down for one husband posed a challenge.

Her first meal as a married woman included one pound of spaghetti served with Italian sausage.

"We were eating it for days," she said, laughing.

With the holiday season officially underway, Williams agreed to supply recipes she has found to be successful for large family meals. Because most of her family has a sweet tooth, she threw in two cake recipes.

And yes, these recipes do have specific information for those who prefer to measure.

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Basically, the setting in DJ's Lounge is one for relaxation. Located in Wayne, the lounge offers a dimly lit bar and dining area, a pool table and assorted video games.

A comfortable rapport can be seen among the staff and the customers, many of whom are regulars.

The atmosphere is somewhat laid back, explained the owner, DJ Doane.

"We run an older clientele here. We don't have many kids coming in," Doane said, referring to teen customers.

DJ's opened May 28. It occupies the former site of the Old Wayne Saloon.

Doane pointed out her lounge offers a varied menu—burgers, reuben sandwiches, bacon-lettuce-tomato sandwiches, shrimp cocktail, steak sandwiches, fish, kielbasa, tuna melts, cheese sticks, shrimp cocktail and soups and salads.

"We've got just about everything," Doane said.

DJ's also can accommodate customers who simply want appetizers or munchies while they drink at the bar.

On Friday and Saturday nights, DJ's hosts bands to provide live entertainment.

"We do all kinds of music, pop, oldies, country western, top 40," Doane said.

DJ's lounge is open from 9:30 a.m. to 2 a.m., Monday through Saturday and from noon until 2 a.m. Sunday. It is located at westbound Michigan Avenue between Wayne Road and Second Street.

'Pay-to-play' continues to haunt Belleville High School athletes

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

'Pay to Play' continues to haunt Belleville High athletes as the Tigers prepare for the 1989-90 winter sports season.

Although there have been no defections to rival camps, the pressure remains on the coaches and the players, according to school officials.

To help defray the costs of varsity sports, athletes have been requested to pay $250 each to compete in athletics. The Van Buren school board has unsuccessfully tried to raise money through three millage requests - all soundly rejected by the voters. The board's recent request, a 4-mill tax hike, was turned down by the voters 1710 to 1140 on Nov. 15.

The board may again toss the request for more money in the voters' laps. That could come sometime this spring, however, no date has been set.

There is a lot of pressure on these kids. It's a shame that they also have to be concerned about these things, too.

— Mike Garland
Belleville coach

"There is a lot of pressure on these kids," said Belleville basketball coach Michael Garland. "It's a shame that they also have to be concerned about these things, too. But it's a fact - and some of these kids don't have the money."

Garland, entering his third year as head coach and a former Belleville High basketball standout, said his players remain devoted to the sport. "We have some hard-working, loyal athletes. But the hardships are real. They haven't gone away."

Aside from finding the money to play, the Tigers also have to be concerned about Wayne Memorial, a team that snatched part of the crown away from them a year ago.

"They're loaded," Garland said, referring to Wayne. "They also have a great coach (Chuck Henry), who has won 20 or more games each of the last five years."

Wayne, the defending Class A district and regional champion, piled up a 20-5 record a year ago, and four of the five players who accomplished that feat will be returning to the Zebras' lineup. The holdovers are

Basketball season is sour for local coach

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It was a "bittersweet" basketball season for Coach Dwight Hotchkiss and the Vikings of Inkster High.

With opportunity knocking at the door, Inkster failed to open up with any kind of offense and fell 49-39 to defending Class B district basketball champ, Dearborn Divine Child, 49-39, in the playoff finals.

However, the Vikings managed to post an 18-4 overall record and win a share of the Suburban Athletic Conference girls' basketball crown during the 1989 campaign. That 18-4 mark is a school record.

"I am proud of this team," said Hotchkiss, who brought the curtains down on his fifth year as head coach. "They played hard right down to the end."

The Vikings' previous best was 15-5.

Divine Child, ranked among the top five best teams in the state during the course of the year, had problems with the pesky Vikings, who refused to bend to the taller and more physical Falcons until the final eight minutes.

With Shannon Bannon leading the defending champs, D.C. eked out a 12-7 first period lead, then the visitors managed to protect their five-point cushion for the next eight minutes. Each team settled for 11 points in the second frame. The two teams went into the locker room with D.C. ahead, 23-18.

Tennessee's gift to Inkster, Leatrice Scott, who has been scoring in double fi-

Surrounded by three Divine Child cagers, Inkster's Leatrice Scott (dark jersey) grabs this rebound. The Vikings wasted Scott's 16 points in losing to the district champs in the Class B championship game, 49-39. They, however, managed to post a record-setting 18-4 overall record for the 1989 season. gures since joining the Vikings three weeks ago, came alive after the initial quarter. Scott, a junior, pumped in 16 points for the evening to keep the hosts within striking distance.

With Scott chipping in five points, the Vikings managed to close the gap to 33-31 as the two archrivals headed into the final eight minutes.

However, Bannon tossed in seven of her game-high 24 points in the last period to seal the victory. Bannon collected half of her 24 from the free throw line.

Hotchkiss was upset that Scott, doubled and sometimes triple teamed, was not award more free throws.

"She (Scott) only had three free throws the entire second half, and when you're double-teaming a player you know she's going to get her share of free throws."

Also disappointed at the loss, Hotchkiss said he wasn't, however, "disappointed at the way our kids played."

"I am only upset because I felt we should have won that game and the district," the Vikings coach said. "I am not taking anything away from Divine Child - they

'Supporting cast' needed if Inkster is to contend

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If Inkster High is to contend for the Suburban Athletic Conference men's basketball crown, Coach George Thompson will have to find a "supporting cast".

"I feel we have a bunch of aggressive players who could compete for the title - but we're not deep, so we need to find a supporting cast for our starters in order to get into this race," Thompson said.

Thompson, beginning his 20th year as the Vikings' head coach, said his 1989-90 schedule is one of the toughest in recent years. Aside from the traditional SAC powers (Highland Park, Robichaud, River Rouge, Willow Run, Oak Park and Ecorse), the Vikings will face the likes of Ypsilanti, Saginaw Buena Vista, Flint Beecher, Detroit Southwestern and Troy High. With the exception of Troy, all have won state titles.

"These kids will be playing against the best - and it's going to be interesting to see if we can play with them."

Short on experienced talent, the Vikings nevertheless do have plenty of capable performers. Although they lost their three-point scoring artist, Gary Johnson, who averaged 21 points per game a year ago, and Kevin Pingleton, who averaged 18, Inkster has holdovers from last year's club in wing guard Tyrone Orr, a 6-3 cager who checks in with a 15 ppg. and 10 rebounds, and Arthur Asberry, also a senior, who is 6-2 and contributed 13 points and 10 rebounds during last year's 13-7 season.

It gets even better. Marcus Kewley, a 6-5 forward-center, Jamal Poplar, a 6-8 senior, and Claude McReynolds, a 6-2 senior who knows how to haul down the rebounds, are back seeking starting assignments. Because of his size, it may be easy to overlook 5-7 Jermaine Jackson. That's what the Viking coach is hoping rivals will do. If they do, Jackson could play havoc on them.

"He's quick and an excellent ballhandler. I am looking to him to carry us at point guard," Thompson said.

There is one other notable, Gary Pizer, a 6-4 junior - the only underclassman on the team - that could contribute to the success of this team.

Thompson admits that "on paper, we do look good." He is quick to point out, "that you can

No stranger Robichaud has new cage coach

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Although he may be new to Robichaud and the Westwood School District, Ron Tarrant is no stranger to the area.

Tarrant, picked to replace Monte Dennard as the Bulldogs' head basketball coach, brings to Robichaud a tradition of winning basketball history. For the past 11 years, Tarrant coached at Willow Run where his Flyers won the 1980 Class B state title and a handful of Suburban Athletic Conference, district and regional championships.

Tarrant also will serve as the athletic director at the high school.

"I'm coming in new but I am obviously not new to the conference," Tarrant said. "But it's going to take time to make some changes and install my philosophy here. I really haven't had any problems."

Tarrant also hasn't wasted any time - he can't afford to - taking the rough edges off of the Robichaud cage machine. Without a "pure starter" from last year's squad, the new coach has to start almost from scratch.

However, Tyrone Wheatley is back. The 6-2 190-pound multi-talented - he's lettered in track, football and basketball - put in plenty of time on the hardwood a year ago. But, Wheatley, like his teammates Robert McClain (6-4 junior), and Ernie Baskin (6-4) have just finished a grueling football season and need fine tuning for basketball.

McClain and Baskin are being tutored for starting roles.

Tarrant has a slew of guards to choose from. He offered some unfamiliar names as possible candidates: William Fleming (5-9), Lee Williams (6-0), Jason Hillman (5-10), Greg Murphy (6-3) and Andy Parham (5-9). All are working hard for starting roles, according to the coach.

"But, I would have to say that it's wide open now who will start," the Bulldog coach announced.

Coming off of a 16-6 season at Willow Run, Tarrant, at this point of the game, would probably be happy if his newly-inherited club could duplicate that mark. Highland Park is loaded, and Willow Run, which finished second in the

Romulus coach to install new code of cage ethics

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Excelling in the classroom and installing a new code of work ethics, which accentuates hard work, will be among the primary goals of first-year Romulus High cage coach Chris Molloy.

Molloy, a former assistant coach at Eastern Michigan, takes over the head coaching reins from Dan Henry, who resigned after the 1988-89 campaign after leading the Eagles to a Class A district title and a 14-9 won-lost record.

Molloy also inherits a basketball legacy that is noted for its tradition of producing some of the finest players in the country. To name just a few - Shaler Halimon, Johnny Long, Grant Long - all of whom have played or are now playing professional basketball. That list of prominent also includes Terry Mills, a key to the University of Michigan's national championship a year ago. Mills, 6-10, will be back in a Wolverine uniform this season.

Molloy also outlined some of his goals for his first year. A staunch advocate of defense, he also believes that hard work will inevitably pay off in the long run.

"Essentially, we have two goals this season," said the 31-year-old Molloy. "Good books, that is, keeping the grades up, and hard work are going to be at the top of the work agenda," Molloy said. "There's no getting around it - what good is an outstanding athlete to his team if he is academically ineligible to compete?"

The 32-year-old Molloy will make his debut as Romulus' head coach on Tuesday when Belleville, the defending Wolverine 'A' Conference co-champs (The Tigers shared the 1989 title with Wayne Memorial) invade the Eagles' gym. They are not scheduled to play again until the following Tuesday (Dec. 12) when Marine City comes to town.

Molloy has only one starter off of last year's club. That starter is sparkplug Virgil Davis, a sharpshooting, elusive point guard who orchestrated Romulus' successful bid for a district title a year ago.

A 5-10 senior who was named last week to the All-Area football team, Davis is a fierce competitor. Molloy also has experience in Kevin Brown (6-2), Larry Perkins (6-1) and Chris Jones (5-11) - all are seniors, while a pair of juniors - Abu Hamilton (6-2) and Torrey Mills (5-11) are looking to break into the starting lineup. Mills is the younger brother - minus the height - of the Wolverine center.

Molloy feels that his team's assets includes

The cheers to continue

The cheering will resume next week as the top high school girls basketball players are named to the 1989 Associated Newspapers All-Area Team. The selections for this elite group will be featured in the Associated Newspapers as soon as the ballots are in. Romulus cage coach

With a second-place trophy in their display case and a 7-0-1 record for their fall performance, the Van Buren Typhoons (above) are looking forward to their trip to Florida where they will compete in the Clearwater "Easter Bunny Tournament". Members of the team include: Andy Neal (first row, from left), Jason Viers, Zach Wilkinson, Ryan McGinnis, Michael Cischke, Tate Travis, and Aaron Wilkinson; second row are Ryan Allen, Seth Heinrich, Lane Lancaster, Ryan Szyndlar, Jason Bennett, Andrew Kisabeth and Chris Wall; in the third row are coaches Dale Travis and Rick Viers. Near perfect Typhoons are thinking spring

In the midst of winter, the Typhoons are thinking spring.

For a good reason. The undefeated Van Buren kickers have been invited to compete in the Clearwater (Florida) "Easter Bunny Soccer Invitational."

Coming off of a successful 7-0-1 won-lost-tied record this fall, Coach Dale Travis and Rick Viers feel that the tournament will be an excellent one for their club.

"I feel that this tournament will prepare the boys for different climatic and environmental conditions," Travis said. "Hopefully, it will also help the boys focus on bigger and better things in the future."

One major obstacle in the team's path is the $5,000 needed to pay for the trip south. The Typhoons are soliciting donations from citizens, and those who are interested in making a contribution may contact Curtis Neal. Neal can be reached after 6 p.m. at 699-8692.

A team made up of players under 11 years old, the select soccer team finished runner-up for the second year in a row at the Maumee Tournament. The local kickers lost a 3-0 decision to the Ohio State champion and returned with the second-place trophy.

Currently, the Typhoons are competing in an indoor soccer league in Farmington. They are sponsored by Chartbuster Super Video and L & W Engineering, both city of Belleville businesses. Team members also were recipients of sweat outfits from Little Caesar's of Belleville, which also paid their tournament fees last spring.

Tigers

Kevin Hankerson (6-5), Pierre Hixon (6-0), Larry Johnson (5-11) and Reggie Brandon (5-6).

In the meantime, Garland is busy finding replacements for four of the five starting spots. He has Benjie Goldston, a 6-3 senior returning to one of the guard posts, but he lost to graduation all-state guard Maurice Brantley, who is at Xavier (Ohio) on a full-ride athletic scholarship. Maurice's twin brother, Andre, also graduated, leaving another gaping hole in the Tiger lineup.

Garland is looking at two seniors - Dave Roeder, a 5-11 senior, and Paul Gardertte, a 6-1 senior - to fill the void.

"They can contribute to the success of this team," Garland said.

The Tiger skipper also has 6-3 junior, Derrick Boles, and 6-foot-3 junior Derrick Bales, 6-foot-3 Andrew Wells and 6-foot-2 Kevin Trumbull available, but he doesn't have much time to iron out the kinks. Belleville will test the Eagles of Romulus and their new coach, Chris Molloy, Tuesday night in the season opener.

"I know Chris and I know he is going to be tough," Garland added.

Belleville launches the Wolverine 'A' Conference phase of the season on Dec. 8 at Lincoln Park. In fact, five of the first six Tiger games this season are on the road.

And, winning on the road in the Wolverine 'A' Conference is like the Detroit Pistons beating the Portland Trailblazers in Portland - something the Pistons haven't accomplished in their last 20 games or since 1974.

aside from the obvious that Highland Park, the defending champ, is the team to beat, Inkster could be the 'cinderella team' of the 1989-90 season.

Now if someone would just give Thompson a magic wand so he could change those mice into a supporting cast.

While you're at it, coach, why not go for broke and ask for a 7-foot center?

this a "season of challenges."

"With Ann Arbor Huron returning most of their kids that won the title and the regional a year ago, and a league noted for its basketball talent, we are going to have our hands filled," Molloy commented. "So there's no getting around it, we are going to have to work hard to just stay with the traditional powers in the league."

tear paper to sheds, too."

That's something Thompson hopes doesn't happen to his team.

And, most coaches in the SAC agree - that, its quickness and "a decent amount of athletic ability", however, he is quick to admit that the lack of height and a tough league may make have an excellent team - but our kids are their equal."

To qualify for the championship round, Inkster ousted Allen Park Cabrini, 63-57, in the semifinal round of the playoffs. The Vikings needed an overtime to accomplish their mission.

Cabrini gave the Vikings a scare. Although Inkster grabbed the initiative and built up a 18-12 first period lead on the strength of balanced scoring, Cabrini replied with a 13-10 scoring edge in the second period to cut the Viking lead to 28-25 at the half. Then, the visitors went on a rampage and outscored their hosts 22-13 in the third period and held a six-point advantage, 47-41, for three.

Scott scored five of her 14 points and Tequan Abney also fired in five, also of her 14, to spark a 14-8 Inkster comeback that tied the game at 55-all at the end of regulation play.

Tawana Green then came through with four of the Vikings' eight points to help squelch the Cabrini upset bid in the added period.

"Again, we had our opportunity during the regulation period," Hotchkiss commented. "We missed seven free throws in the fourth period alone. If we had made just one of those we would have put them away without the necessity of playing an overtime."

Could be Is this the 'Year of the Chiefs?'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Is this the year of the Huron Chiefs?

New Boston Huron basketball coach Larry Swick hopes so. His Chiefs, trampled upon in the league that bears their name, has "good size" and "good attitude" on a club that has struggled in the past.

But the past is behind the veteran coach. "For the first time in years we have size," Swick pointed out. "And that's something new for us. I believe we're going to be able to compete with this team."

Swick has size but it comes packaged in sophomores Matt Holton (6-4), Jason Hall (6-4) and Bill Phipps (6-4), who haven't been tested in varsity uniforms. They could be part of Huron's destiny.

But, forget destiny. Swick may have the players who will make fans forget about All-Area guards Mike Harrison and Mike Debozy, who have graduated. In their place, he had four veterans - Matt Spiecker, a 6-0 senior guard;

Dave Delano and Matt Hamilton, a pair of 5-11 junior guards, and Ron Wowitcke, a 5-9 junior guard.

Huron obviously has an overabundance of guards.

And one returning forward. He's Greg Poet (6-2), who came on strong at the close of the 1988-89 campaign.

Even with this blend of talent, Swick admits his team may be hard-pressed to make waves this year in a league that has produced some of the best Class B teams in the state.

Grosse Ile, who has lost to graduation one of the Klein brothers, and Monroe Catholic Central, along with Carlson appear to be have the horses to make a run for the title. The Islanders are the defending champs.

"But I believe this could be an interesting and turnaround year for us," said Swick, entering his fifth season as head coach. "We have some kids who are capable of getting the job done."

The Chiefs start off against a Class A power, Adrian, on Tuesday (Dec. 8) on the road.

SAC will again be tough. Add to potential title contenders the names of Inkster and Oak Park and one can understand why Tarrant may have some difficulty repeating his 1988-89 record.

On Tuesday, Tarrant will have had a glimpse of just what he has - or has not - when Robichaud opens the 1989-90 season at home to Ann Arbor Pioneer.
